Also, it was considered that to erect the tree on this lot, which is adjacent to the railroad tracks, would be the best possible boost for Albuquerque. Passengers on all trains going through the city will see it—they just can't help doing so—and they will know without being told that Albuquerque is the biggest little city in the world and that she is alive to the spirit of Christmas and to the march of progress. As a piece of municipal advertising, nothing could be better for the city than the crection of the tree at this location.

The meeting yesterday afternoon Boost for the Town.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was one of the most enthusiastic ever held in Albuquerque. The various sub-committees reported progress, and the determination to make the movement the biggest success ever pulled off in the city was very much in evidence.

A feature of the meeting illustrating the infectious enthusiasm that has taken possession of all connected with the movement was the contribution of five dollars to the Christmas tree fund by a Chicago woman who is stopping temporarily in Albuquerque and who had read of the pians for the tree and wanted to help. Requesting that her name be not published, this lady yesterday sought out Mrs. Neill B. Field, the chairman of the general committee, and asked to be allowed to contribute.
